The Director
Central Intelligence Agency

Washington, D. C. 20505

5 June 1980

Dear Rick,

Just wanted to thank you again for the privilege of being with you and your graduating class at Pace last Sunday. It was an inspiring ceremony with an inspiring group of people.

I congratulate you also on your personal achievements and the recognition that was accorded you at the ceremony. I know this will stand you in good stead as you move forward in your career. If the CIA ever figures in it, we would be pleased. In all events, I wish you well. I am enclosing some literature on our Graduate Studies Program in case it appeals to you next year.

In the meantime, my thanks again and warmest wishes.

Yours,

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

GRADUATE STUDIES PROGRAM

The Graduate Studies Program began in 1966 with initial focus on Chinese area and language studies. Gradually, it has expanded to include other geographical areas and academic disciplines such as foreign political affairs, economics, engineering, geography, law, and psychology. The majority of those selected for this Program have completed one or more years of graduate study; they must be committed to attend graduate school the fall following completion of the internship.

The Graduate Studies Program has proven mutually beneficial. Working with professional analysts on foreign intelligence, students have an opportunity to apply their academic skills to the substantive work of the Agency. The Agency benefits from the high quality of the student's research projects, some of which are published and distributed throughout the Intelligence Community. The students also have weekly orientation sessions with senior officials who discuss in detail the work of various components of the Agency. These officials are candid in describing the activities and responsibilities of their components. This same frankness prevails in their response to questions from the students.

Favorable reaction to the assignments and briefings has been consistently high. Consequently, competition for acceptance into the Program is very keen. The number of inquiries received each year has far exceeded the number of positions available. Candidates should apply with a resume early in the fall for the following summer's Program.

For additional information, contact Mr. James Smith, Associate Coordinator for Student Trainee Programs, Department A Room 812, P. O. Box 1925, Washington, D. C. 20013.

The Agency is an equal opportunity employer.
